

Toronto Travel Itinerary

A guide on what to see, do and eat in a weekend!

Day 1 Morning

Take a streetcar to Kensington Market. Have a coffee and croissant at Moonbean cafe. Continue walking through Kensington Market. Check out the vintage clothing stores on Augusta Ave., go to one of the cheese stores also nearby (they give you samples!). Try doubles at the Golden Patty. Walk around Kensington and people watch. There are almost always street performers you can stop and listen to.

Photos from Kensington

Day 1 Afternoon

Next, I would suggest walking through Chinatown (it's next to Kensington Market). There are places you can go for lunch like Mother's Dumplings or Pho Hung if you prefer Vietnamese food. Chinatown is also a really good place to find souvenirs.

After, go to the University of Toronto campus. You can take a walking tour or just walk around the campus yourself. There are also art galleries on campus. I recommend Justina M. Burnicke Gallery.

If you're hungry, you should go to one of the chip trucks on campus and get poutine. They have the best poutine!

Photos from Chinatown/University of Toronto

Day 1 Evening

I recommend you go to the CN Tower, one of the most famous landmarks in Toronto. Have dinner and drinks in the restaurant at the top of the Tower. There are amazing views of the city, especially at sunset!

Photos from the CN Tower

Day 2 Morning

Go to St. Lawrence Market, Toronto's oldest market. You can buy many kinds of fruit, vegetables and meat here. I suggest you buy sandwiches, (try peameal bacon or eggplant parmesan) cheese and fruit for a picnic. Next to the market you can take a ferry and go to one of the Toronto Islands. These are beautiful islands with parks.

You can also walk, rent and ride a bike or go to a small amusement park on the islands!

Photos of St. Lawrence/ Toronto Islands

Day 2 Afternoon

Go to Allan Gardens. A beautiful conservatory in central Toronto. You can see many beautiful plants from around the world.

After, walk to an Ethiopian restaurant called Ethiopian House. Order the vegetarian platter and the coffee ceremony. The food is so delicious!

Photos from Allan Gardens/ Ethiopia House

Day 2 Evening

Go to the Harbourfront Centre and relax. There are usually great performances: live dance and music next to the lake. There's often delicious food too!

Photos of Harbourfront

